A Message from the Principal

To our Allenbrook Elementary School families:

This is the annual School Progress Report for Allenbrook Elementary, part of our effort to keep families fully informed about our students' academic progress, our staff and our school environment.

The last few years have been challenging ones for Allenbrook, and we have experienced a decline in academic performance. As a result, the school has been included in the CMS Strategic Staffing Initiative. This means that, in addition to a new principal and assistant principal, high-performing teachers have been brought into the school to improve student achievement.

As you will see from this report, 32.3 percent of our students performed at or above grade level on last year's End-of-Grade reading test. Throughout this school year, staff members will focus on introducing a number of strategies to help improve our students' reading skills.

On the End-of-Grade math test, 55.6 percent of our students demonstrated proficiency. In order to increase math achievement this year, we will be using the new Math Investigations program. Our staff members are excited about the possibilities of this innovative teaching approach, and we believe that it will make a real difference in helping build our students' math skills.

Our overall composite proficiency rate on the End-of-Grade tests was 41 percent.

This year, we will be giving students additional learning time to catch up on mastery of basic skills. We will use a variety of strategies to re-teach students who have fallen behind; at the same time, we will

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID NOT make AYP
(13 of 15 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: Low Performing
(DID NOT meet growth expectations)

Proficiency: 41.4%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 78.9%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 47.1%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 75.4%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results:	Safety	88%
	Encouragement	98%
	Engagement	95%

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

▶ Allenbrook Elementary School

provide enrichment for students who have already mastered the content material. In our opinion, these strategies will help improve student achievement across the board.

In 2008-2009, we did not make Adequate Yearly Progress, the standard set for schools by the No Child Left Behind Act. We met 13 of our 15 targets. Based on our results, Allenbrook received a designation of Low Performing School under the North Carolina ABCs standards. The staff at Allenbrook is committed to doing whatever it takes to improve student learning. I am extremely optimistic and excited about the possibilities that lie ahead as we seek to boost our performance.

At Allenbrook, we have a dedicated faculty and staff. Through the Strategic Staffing initiative I mentioned earlier, our school now has a better blend of veteran and new teachers. Some of our staff members hold advanced degrees and/or National Board certification. A collegial atmosphere and a quest for excellence at the school combine to provide our students with exceptional educational possibilities. Each day offers students new and unique opportunities to learn and grow.

It is an honor and a privilege to serve the Allenbrook Elementary families and community as we prepare our students for life in the 21st century. I look forward to working with you on the journey to improved student learning.

Sincerely,
Celeste Spears-Ellis
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
