A Message from the Principal

To our Greenway Park Elementary School families:

This is the annual School Progress Report for Greenway Park Elementary. We are sending this to you so that you may be fully informed about our students' academic progress, our staff and our school environment.

On last year's End-of-Grade math test, we attained High Growth with a composite proficiency rate of 77.9 percent. In reading, 69.2 percent of our students achieved proficiency. This means that over two-thirds of our students were on grade level in reading. Science was included for the first time in the End-of-Grade tests, and more than half of our fifth-grade students—55.4 percent—were considered proficient.

Overall, our school made Expected Growth, with 71.1 percent of our students in grades three, four and five achieving proficiency in math, reading and science.

At Greenway Park, we celebrate our diverse population. We serve students from a variety of racial, ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds. This diversity means that we have many targets to meet for Adequate Yearly Progress, the standard set for schools by the No Child Left Behind Act. We are pleased to report that we met all 25 of our targets for the 2008-2009 school year.

This year, we will maintain our focus on high academic achievement for all students at Greenway Park. We plan to move forward with our Intensive Reading program, which gives students the tools and support to increase their reading skills. The academic progress of all students will be monitored, and instruction will be adjusted appropriately to meet the diverse learning needs of every student.

CMS Accountability Measures

The learning of students in public education is measured in multiple ways. There are assessments given at regular intervals by CMS—tests that we use to measure how students are learning as the school year progresses. Other tests are required by the state and given once or twice a year, such as End-of-Course and End-of-Grade tests. Some of the state test results are also used to calculate district progress on the federal standard of Adequate Yearly Progress for each student. This page provides brief explanations of some of the measures and tests used in CMS.

► Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP)

Our school DID make AYP
(25 of 25 goals met)

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that every school make Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). AYP is an all-or-nothing standard: Every target must be met.

State test results are used to set AYP targets. There are separate targets for the school as a whole and for nine subgroups of students: white, black, Hispanic, Native American, Asian, multiracial, economically disadvantaged students, students with limited English proficiency and students with disabilities. Subgroups of students are measured separately so that an overall score for a class or a school does not mask poor results within a subgroup.

Some schools are more diverse than others, so the number of subgroups varies by school. Therefore, the number of AYP targets varies by school, too. Some schools may have only a few targets to meet; others may have the maximum, which is 41. School attendance and graduation rates are also measured for AYP.

For a more complete overview of AYP, visit www.dpi.state.nc.us/nclb/abcayp/overview/ayp

For details of AYP results for our school and its student groups, visit <http://ayp.ncpublicschools.org>

► ABC Designation

Our school's designation: School of Progress
(DID meet growth expectations)

Proficiency: 71.1%

The North Carolina ABCs program was introduced more than a decade ago to help schools improve. It uses two basic measures to assess a school's performance: the Average Growth of students (at right); and the Performance Composite, which measures how well students performed against a state-set standard of academic achievement.

Schools are given one of seven designations. In descending order, they are: Honor School of Excellence, School of Excellence, School of Distinction, School of Progress, No Recognition, Priority School, and Low Performing.

For more information about ABCs, visit <http://abcs.ncpublicschools.org/abcs>

► Average Growth

State Standard: 80%
Our School: 82.5%

Did our students meet the state's expectation for academic growth? Each student is expected to perform as well (or better) on the End-of-Grade assessment as he or she did, on average, during the previous two years. Average Growth for a school is calculated by comparing actual performance to expected performance and then averaging the difference across all students and all subjects. The score above reflects the combined growth rate of all of our students. To make expected growth, a school must have a score of 80% or higher.

► Students Making or Exceeding a Year's Worth of Growth

State Standard: 60%
Our School: 59.9%

Did our students learn as much as they were expected to learn this year? As described above, the state sets expectations for each student based on individual performance for the previous two years. Across the state, about half of students typically meet or exceed this growth expectation. To earn the high-growth designation, a school must meet the average-growth standard described above and also have more than 60% of its students make expected growth.

► Amount of Growth for Students in the Lowest Achieving Group

Our School: 84.4%

Are we helping our low achievers catch up? Historically, some poor and minority students have trailed their classmates in academic achievement. This is called the achievement gap, and closing it is one of the biggest challenges in public education. If the lower-achieving students at a school show academic growth at a faster rate than higher-achieving students, the achievement gap is narrowed. When the percentage for this measure is higher than the Average Growth for the school, the school is closing the achievement gap.

► Positive Responses to Multiple Student Survey Items

Our School's Results:	Safety	91%
	Encouragement	98%
	Engagement	96%

Do our students perceive this school as safe and welcoming? This measure is subjective—it is taken from a student survey.

► Greenway Park Elementary School

Our Talent Development Program will offer instructional activities to enrich and accelerate learning. In addition, a new math program promises to provide our students with hands-on activities to help them understand fundamental math concepts. As they move through increasingly complex math lessons, students will develop the necessary problem-solving skills to master the material.

We will concentrate our staff-development efforts this year on effective team planning to organize and deliver rigorous, engaging instruction. This will include the provision of time each day for teachers to meet and share proven instructional strategies, examine student work, analyze assessments and plan activities that focus on raising student achievement.

The school has a strong, stable staff. Thirty percent hold advanced degrees, and 26 percent are National Board-certified. The average teaching experience is 13 years.

Although Greenway Park opened in 1995, a number of our current staff have been here since our first day.

We appreciate and value your continued support and look forward to sharing our progress with you throughout the year. We are confident that our efforts will result in accelerated growth and high academic achievement for all of our students. Our staff is dedicated, knowledgeable and committed to the academic, emotional and social growth of each child at Greenway Park.

Sincerely,
Sophia Hazlehurst
Principal

What is the School Progress Report?

In 2006, we introduced the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools Strategic Plan 2010 outlining our vision and strategy to educate our students to compete locally, nationally and internationally.

The plan outlines seven areas of concentration: high academic achievement; effective educators; adequate resources and facilities; safe and orderly schools; freedom and flexibility with accountability; world-class service, and strong parent and community connections. This report summarizes how our school performed in the 2008-09 school year in making progress on these seven goals. On page 3, you will also find an explanation of federal and state accountability measures.

Educators and parents have a common goal of preparing our children to compete in an ever-growing global community. Working together requires frequent dialogue between school and parents, so please feel free to contact the principal or any staff member at our school.
